Five Premiership players who are surprising everyone with their performances

There have been some big players this season and a few of them are surprising everyone by making a name for themselves.

Livingston fans might laugh at this suggestion but although they will have already known about his talent, most of the Premiership wouldn't have. The talented midfielder joined the Lions from Dunfermline when they were in League One and has been a vital part of back-to-back promotions. His tenacity in the middle of the park helps his defenders and gives a good base for attacks. But it isn't just his defensive work that makes him what he is, he's a capable playmaker and has an eye for goal. He's only got one for the season but he's forced some good saves on other occasions. In reality, you could select any of the Livingston regulars for this list but Byrne is one who goes under the radar a wee bit with Liam Kelly, Craig Halkett, Alan Lithgow and Declan Gallagher getting most of the credit.

When he was replaced by Craig Sibbald during the second half of the defeat to Rangers at Ibrox, it was noticeable how much more open Livi were. That's not a slight on Sibbald who has done well to fight back from injuries that have hampered his season, but Byrne just offers that bit extra.
